Why did God create me?
What does he want me to do?
To serve others, or to save them...?

But the important question is-
Why did God create us human beings?
Is it to pollute the earth,
And kill the poor living things?

Maybe I'm wrong,
Maybe I'm right,
But this is my biggest inquiry.

You need to inquire,
In order to acquire;
Or the questions will burn,
In your mind like a fire.

And in life, promise,
To never be a liar.
So go ahead and inquire,
If you really want to acquire.

I was watching WWE,
And watched 'The Rock' in action.
He is a real champion,
And defeated even John Cena.

I inquired about him,
He is an actor and a wrestler.
I wondered how much work he put in,
To become the legend he is.

My mind came alive, and I inquired,
How I could become a great actor and wrestler too,
Soon I found, that all I could do,
Is work, and believe in myself too.

Ask, ask, ask questions
Just keep asking questions

Either on sports,
Or on quotes,
Or on studies,
Just keep asking questions.

Let's fill our brains,
Let our brains not go in vain.

Let us train our brains for the world
we stay,
For a better stay.

Ask your gurus,
Ask your parents,
Ask yourself,
For answers you dearly wish for.

Let the answers develop us, and lift us high,
So just keep asking questions.

Let us keep asking questions,
Till we get the answers,
That we dearly wish for.

So keep asking questions,
Just keep asking questions.

How do you think we humans evolved?
It's inquiry, that's all.

It's the thirst for knowledge,
That gave us all.

From fire to computer,
So many new things.

We even discovered,
An antidote to flush.
Ebola, Dengue, Polio,
There was a great thinker called Galileo.

In the discovery of how to reach space,
'Whoa!' Cried out the human race.

There's NASA, ISRO, that inquires more,
To let our brains grow,
In the journey to go.

I had a doubt in Science,
So, I inquired my books and found the answers.
They were really easy.
Whoo-Hoo! I liked inquiring.

I had a doubt in English
I asked my teachers and they told me the answers.
They were tougher than science.
Whoo-Hoo! I liked inquiring.

I had a doubt in Maths,
I asked my friends and they told me to find out on my own.
The answers were the toughest.
Whoo-Hoo! I liked inquiring.

I had a doubt in Social Studies,
I asked my parents and they gave me clues,
The answers were the easiest.
Whoo-Hoo! I liked inquiring.

I had a doubt in the world,
I asked myself and I got the answers.
They were the best.
Whoo-Hoo! I liked inquiring.

What are machines? How do we use them?

Where is the largest flower located?

Who stole Rs 1,00,000 from me?

What is happening here?

Everyday, I have a doubt.
Everyday, I search for answers.

Then I found a word,
Which means 'asking questions'.

'Inquiry' is the word,
I do it everyday,

Small children ask, "What is a bin?,
Where do we put a pin?"

Senior students ask "What is $E=MC^2$?"

Inquiry, inquiry, inquiry!
The police ask questions,
To the cowardly thief.

Inquiry is so very important,
We do need it in our life.

Inquiring is a good habit,
Whether a lot or a bit.

Once I was curious about historical places,
So I asked my teacher,
“I want to know about historical places”
Teacher said, “Students, let’s learn about history”

And once I had a doubt whether Pluto exists,
So I thought I’d read books and find out.
And I finally got the answer to all my inquiries.

Inquiry is a need,
That we cannot resist.

Inquiry is a temptation,
That we cannot resist.

Inquiry is curiosity,
That is generated in our brain.

Inquiry is the guide,
That leads us on our way.

Inquiry is the spark,
That causes new discoveries.

We inquire every minute, of every day,
Inquiry is what helps us find the answers within.

I have a secret diary,
Which is full of inquiry,
Suddenly I got a problem,
Which is all about a big emblem.
The emblem was pink,

And I had to think,
“Was it stolen? Was it misplaced?”
I was still thinking,
I was confused and I was blinking.
It was still a mystery,
Which was full of inquiry.

I thought hard,
About why boys were sometimes bad,
Why girls were bold,
And good as gold.

I thought about why ants were small,
And why women went to the mall,
I still have questions,
Which need satiation.

If we want to inquire,
We need to inquire,
From sunrise,
To sunset.
We all inquire,

And acquire much knowledge,
For if we want to gain,
We need to inquire.
Keep on inquiring.
Inquire, inquire, inquire.

I had a doubt in geography,
What is the capital of New York?
What is our wonderful History?
Why do we have exams, that's mystery?

What are the rivers in the world?
The longest snakes they appear
What are the wonders we've missed?
Why is the world so big?
These are my inquiries in Geography.

How did you learn?
By asking questions to earn.
But what is this cycle of questioning?
Oh! This is nothing but inquiring!

Once you get the answer to your query,
You'll see the fruit of knowledge is sweet like a cherry,
Over the River of Knowledge you can ride a ferry,
Questions do make your life very merry.

Your mind becomes totally clear,
And what goes far away is your fear.
It may not be as ferocious as a bear,
But it surely isn't something you can bear to tear.

When I was a kid,
I poured a lot of questions,
Here are some questions I want to rewind;
What is a boxing day test? How strong is the human mind?

Did I get the answers of what I wondered?
These were the questions upon what I pondered.
Some were answered by my nearest and dearest,
Whom I feel are ultimately the best.

I referred to many sources,
Which brought me the fruits of success,
The spirit of inquiry within me made me explore more
It brought about a quizzing spree which I loved from my core.

My knowledge tree grew towards the natural world,
Where every little thing is as precious as gold.
We construct buildings brick by brick
So many resources we buy and pick,
Inquiry is a perennial river,
Which makes us think of our mind and its power.

If you start inquiring,
You'll understand why it is necessary.
You already knew it was existing,
But to explore, you must start thinking.

After years, you'll see the things that exist,
And with curiosity, you'll be blinking.
At last you'll be like Thomas Alva Edison,
You'll see that learning is really fun.

If you have lots of questions,
You'll get more questions.

Why does my mind,
Always keep asking?
Why is it,
That curiosity has no end?

I love to inquire,
It answers my doubts,
But the problem is,
Curiosity has no end.

Not a day goes by,
When I don't inquire,
But what is it,
That makes me inquire?

Doubts, questions;
We've always got them,
But I still inquire,
Because I want an answer.

I used to ask a lot of questions,
My teachers, parents, friends
Relatives and neighbours.
Some got annoyed and irritated.

But one of them encouraged me,
And told me to ask more,
I kept asking him all day,
Until my eyes were sore.

Finally it was over,
My inquiries were done,
My teacher smiled at me and said,
“I sure hope you had fun!”

I remember how my mate,
When he was in Grade Eight,
Used to inquire,
His mind was on fire.

He searched for preachers,
And hounded the teachers,
He made me realize,
How important it was to inquire.

He was a good friend,
That I never did doubt.

He still sends me the occasional letter,
His questions really aren't any better,
While reading them I laugh out loud,
But really, he stands apart from the crowd.

Is there something beyond this limitless universe?
Does it hold inexplicable gifts or an unforgettable curse?

Could it be so far, that I can never see,
The wonders and adventures it holds for me?

“There’s nothing like that, it’s rubbish”, they say,
I don’t know for sure, but one day I may,
I’ve climbed mountains, and crossed the river,
But I guess I lost hope, forever and ever.

The unforgettable dreams still reside within me,
I guess they’re the reason for who I am and will be,
I wonder what lies beyond each and every day,
I don’t know for sure, but one day I may.
