

Wonders of the Winter

Wonders of the winter to me
Are sipping cocoa beneath a snowy tree.
Building snowmen tall, playing snowball games,
Laughing with friends as we call out each other's names.

Wrapped in soft blankets, feeling cozy and free,
Sitting on my bed with a pot of hot tea.
Gentle music drifting like a calm winter breeze,
Christmas lights sparkling on all the trees.

Winter is the season when hearts feel rare—
A time full of kindness, of love, and to share.

Wonders of the Winter

With winter comes the wonder,
As snow drifts down like glitter.
The trees that once were green,
Stand bare in winter's shiver.

Near the fireplace we sit,
Wrapped warm in blankets knit.
Outside it's chill and cold,
With winds that softly flit.

Our laughter lights the room,
Chasing away the gloom.
With cookies, drinks, and cheer,
Winter's magic starts to bloom.

Wonders of the Winter

Winter is a time so cool,
We wear sweaters to school.
Cold winds blow night and day,
Children love to laugh and play.

Snow and ground covers all trees,
Its a lovely sight you have got to see.
We drink hot chocolate, warm and sweet,
And warm our hands to feel the heat.

Birds fly far to find the sun,
Winter days are full of fun.
It is a season fresh and bright,
Full of joy and pure delight.

Wonders of the Winter

The wonders of winter bring a cold breeze,
Dancing through the branches of the frosted trees.
Everyone in their cozy beds at night,
Where snow is all that is seen in your sight.

Children go out and play,
Making snowmen and forts all day.
Wearing coats wherever they go,
Eating delicious gingerbread made out of dough.

Time passes and the sun comes out,
Melting winter's sparkle all about.
Slowly the flowers start to bloom,
Leaving the snow with no room.

Wonders of the Winter

Winter that comes every year,
Brings joy and hope to everyone near.
The children go out to play,
In the snowy gardens all day.

A time so calm and silent,
Every soul feels warm and vibrant.
With the christmas soon to come,
Everyone enjoys and celebrities the fun.

The winter soon fades away,
Welcoming the bright and powerful sun's ray.
The snowman starts to melt
A sign of warmer days felt.
