Building my Bharat

I see , A radiant light,
Light of creation
One which radiates
The fabric of space - time
I bear this light,
And today I conflate this very light
To create a land of gruesome divinity
I create a jingle of life, of paradigm.
One whose breath breathes purity.
One armed with nature's greatest weapon a weapon unbeknownst by many -
It is knowledge.
And I call,
this land of beauty - beautified Bharat.

Building my Bharat

Across this diving land, soars a fine feeding of pride and freedom.
that is, my Bharat ever so bright and cheer some
The building blocks of this nation constitutes of all the people in this land who take each step together unified and grand.

But every grain of sand,
Cannot be perfectly round and moist
Thus, not every problem can be eradicated
Unless, we choose to raise our voice.
There is no point complaining this land has massive potential to grow, and that land is my Bharat
I couldn't ask for anything more.

People build our Bharat,
Diverse and different they maybe,
With unity gushing within them,
Caste, religion ,race forgotten,
Filled with respect an pride,
Notice it from the stride,
They'll carry the legacy of Bharat,
Carry its culture and heritage,
They will make it last for ages,
Such are the people of Bharat,
Witness as they build our Bharat.

Bharat which is known for its past, Beholds a treasury of successes-vast,
I, as the youth of this very land Shall always perform the helping hand.
For Bharat and its future.
I dream of bigger pictures,
Wishing the perish the sufferings the nation
Helping allies, even foes, in a situation.
From Sushruta's and Aryabhata's ancient success days
To ISRO's expenditures to explore the space
The ovations are definitely not insufficient.
Yet I fall short of words to explain Bharat's conquest.

Freedom's fighters united, hand in hand.
From Gandhi's nonviolence to Bose's fierce might,
They paved the path to liberation's light.
Monuments stand tall, narrating the past,
Tales of valor and struggles vast.
Taj Mahal's beauty and India Gate's pride,
A nation's history they beautifully guide.
Through trials and triumphs, we rise anew,
A land of dreams, where hopes come true.

Building my Bharat

Eons ago, Bharat was the pinnacle of its splendor,
The flame of its brilliance burning bright
The tune of its magnificence
Resonated across the seas.

However, upon the arrival,
Of the harbingers of chaos
The glory of Bharat was plunged into darkness.
The blaze reduced to a subdued glow
It's resonance dulled into a mere hum.

The fame, though hidden, is not extinguished,
We must find it within us and reignite it.
We must let the hymn of the nation echo,
Only then can Bharat be restored to its former glory.

In the canvas of Bharat, dreams take flight, Building a future with relentless might.
From the north's icy peaks to southern shores,
A tapestry of unity each heart adores.
With history's wisdom and progress's spark,
We build a Bharat that lights up the dark.
Diverse cultures blend, a harmonious song,
In this journey together, we all belong.
Through sweat and innovation, we pave the way,
Building my Bharat, come what may.
With hope as our guide, and love as our art,
We're crafting a legacy from the very start.

Should be our distinguished fashion.
The lost legacy of this great land,
Is our responsibility to hold.
Our 100 year heritage,
Is at stake in this modern age.
Bharat, the true essence of India.
Let's mend ourselves,
To lend ourselves to bring Bharat back.
Let's take a mental oath,
To bring this land forth.

Bharat, the most populous country of the world,
For the better or for the worse?
Being the 5th largest economy,
7th largest nation by land area 4th by military might.
Yet, our nation is still highly disrespected, only criticized for our flaws,
and barely praised for our great achievements.
Under the radar we progress.
The west not noticing as they think they're the best.

Building my Bharat

The troop marches through our gates, stored to take everything away snatched the identity we had left us with a imprisoned fate

We started to build again, the identity, that shattered in fragment.
bottling up the feeling of failure we walked towards success every year

Today I stand solemn,
On the land which has nourished me.
It doesn't have to build me much
It has enough legacy to flourish thy.

In my beloved Bharat, I'll build a dream
Where unity and harmony forever gleam
With bricks of compassion and mortar of love
A nation soaring high, like a free-spirited dove I'll lay foundations strong, of knowledge and might Where education empowers, shining ever bright Embracing diversity, I'll build bridges of trust Breaking down barriers, in a world so unjust

With structures of justice, I'll build an even ground Where no one is oppressed, no voices are drowned Respecting each other's faith, creed, and belief
I'll build a land where unity finds sweet relief
With empathy as my blueprint, I'll create a space
For kindness and compassion to always embrace
Where people find solace, in times of despair
For a Bharat built on love, with hearts laid bare

'India' when I hear, Something feels off, Undoubtedly, non - reluctantly, all say "We're proud Indians"
And yet again something feels missing
Its not the word or the country
It's "that" colonial mindset that is off.
I can't recall the last time I heard "We are Bharatiyas.."
India maybe our country, but Bharat is our identity.
The identity the can be buried unsheltered,
And yet be present within each of us.
This very same identity was buried by,
Who we now refer to as "Colonizers"
They, took a huge part of us and now,
It's high time, we the Bharatiyas take a shovel, Unbury and take back what was ours
Yes, our identities and in return burn ours.
"Western mindset" the so called "gift" from them.
Once again, like any other time in history,
Let's build up our Bharat, together.

Every palm born in this earth, the man to the lesser I suppose,
Have built thyself and thy earth,
Still, there is more to compose.
Breath by breath, skin after skin,
More to arrive, they arrive soon,
Lineages have bled, Thee have akin,
Have built thy palm to hold thee moon.

Death can't rest the inevitable,
Thy must thrive for thy earth,
Bharat must fulfill the incomprehensible,
Build thee bharat, build thy worth.
Thee will come, will come soon,
The sun will rejoice with the moon.
Thy world will end akin thy earth
Build thyself and thy Bharat.
